POSITION DETAILS:

Responsibilities for the Haitian Scholar-in-Residence

The CUNY Haitian Studies Institute (HSI), housed in Brooklyn College's School of Humanities and Social Sciences, is recruiting a Haitian scholar in residence. The scholar in residence will initiate, continue, or complete research projects in their field and share with the academic community via lectures, seminars, and publication. The Haitian scholar in residence will also serve as a mentor for undergraduate and/or graduate students by conducting a series of seminars to discuss research techniques, how to publish in peer-reviewed academic journals, and other related academic issues. They will support, initiate, and participate in all projects and activities designed to augment the HSI's institutional strength and to help it accomplish its academic and community service mission, goals and objectives. The Haitian scholar in residence will report to the Associate Director.

Brooklyn College serves students from over 150 countries who speak over 100 languages and dialects and thus constitutes a vibrant microcosm of the rich diversity and energy that characterizes the borough of Brooklyn and the greater New York City area itself. Its mission features "a special commitment to educate immigrant and first-generation college students from the diverse communities that make up our city and state." The college ethos is invested in the educational and eventual career success of all of its students. We are committed to fostering a spirit of camaraderie and shared ideals across the entire spectrum of our varied constituency. By accessing a first-class and affordable college education in an inclusive and nurturing intellectual milieu, our students acquire the skills, confidence, and global mindedness that allow them to thrive in a rapidly changing, unpredictable marketplace of ideas that is increasingly mindless of borders and spans the gamut of cultures and vernaculars.
