General Description

Education Curator

The Lehman College Art Gallery seeks a Curator of Education, who should have a broad, substantive knowledge of art history and specialized knowledge in contemporary art and committed to working with young people, teachers and administrators from K-12 Bronx public schools. Specific responsibilities include: teaching in all aspects of LCAG's programs, including but not limited to single-visit and multi-session workshops for students both on and off site; conducting professional development workshops for teachers. Teaching includes strategy planning with LCAG staff, implementation of strategy in the classroom, and direct instruction with students in pre-K through grade 12, and with learners of all ages. Other responsibilities: carrying out administrative responsibilities, i.e. submission of written lesson plans, assessments, teaching schedules, and payment forms.

Lehman College Art Gallery is a dynamic visual arts institution serving the greater New York area as well as the Lehman College campus of the City University of New York. The gallery, a separately incorporated 501(c)3, presents contemporary art exhibitions and education programs. It also promotes the art and architecture through two educational Websites, Bronx Public Art and Bronx Architecture. The gallery has a very active school program for K-12 students with over 12,0000 visits in the current year. Its exhibitions and programs have received critical attention in the press including The New York Times, Art in America, ArtNews, Art Nexus and many other periodicals. Lehman is a liberal arts college on 37 tree-lined acres in the Bronx, the gallery is located in the center of the campus in a building designed by Marcel Breuer.
