General Description

The City University of New York seeks a Continuing Education Project Manager to coordinate a new occupational training initiative. The project manager, under the supervision of the assistant director for continuing education and exercising substantial independent judgment, will coordinate a new initiative training community health workers in a variety of content areas. The manager will work closely with staff from the NYC Department of Health and Mental Hygiene, who have expertise working with this crucial and emerging workforce. The main role of the manager will be to coordinate the operations of a robust training calendar that includes one large conference, four medium-sized convenings, four small convenings, and 31 single-day trainings. The manager will be responsible for booking space, managing food orders, contracting with instructors, and other event-related tasks. The position is guaranteed through the end of October, with the possibility of continuing through 2018 based on performance.
